Threatening Whiteness: Islam’s Challenge to American White Supremacy

A WGSS Visiting Scholar Lunchtime Lecture with Megan Prince Goodwin

Tuesday, January 30
12:00-1:00 pm
346 Curry Student Center

Lunch will be served

Laws that were originally intended to expand religious freedom and protect minority communities are now being used to preserve white mainstream Christian privilege.

This project considers how contemporary American whiteness is threatened by Islam and Muslims –particularly Muslims of color.

Presented by the Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies program
wgss@northeastern.edu

Photo by Hernan Piñera on Foter.com / CC BY-SA