Grant Support

2021 - 2023 National Institute of Justice (2020-VT-BX-0111): Understanding the Physical and Psychological Health and Wellness Needs of Minor Sex Trafficking Victims (Co-Principal Investigator), $985,786.

This study uses a multi-method approach to advance research knowledge on health outcomes for minor sex trafficking survivors and improve our understanding of factors that facilitate and impede health care access. In collaboration with minor sex trafficking-serving community service agencies, the study aims to recruit large sample of commercially sexually exploited youth to participate in a quantitative health survey. The surveys will be supplemented with in-depth qualitative interviews with adult survivors of minor sex trafficking to provide information and context about the physical and psychological health consequences of sex trafficking victimization and the barriers to health care access.

2020 Commonwealth of MA Executive Office of Public Safety and Security (EOPSS): Hate Crime Educational Resource Guide (Co-Principal Investigator), $100,000.

This project aims to develop a resource guide on hate crime and bias victimization for schools in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. The final product would serve as a prevention, intervention, and educational resource for school administrators, educators, parents, and students.

2018 – 2020 National Institute of Justice (2017-VF-GX-0005): Longitudinal Examination of Victimization Experiences of Latinos (LEVEL): Extending the Bias Victimization Study (Principal Investigator), $725,999.

This project is a continuation of the “Understanding and Measuring Bias Victimization against Latinos” study, providing longitudinal data on the victimization experiences of Latino adults. The study will evaluate the role of cultural factors on victimization experiences. In addition to the quantitative data, this study will have a qualitative component that will allow us to better understand how these factors play a role in the victimization experiences of Latinos as well as decisions to disclose or report victimization.

2017 – 2019 National Institute of Justice (2016-V3-GX-0001): Understanding and Measuring Bias Victimization against Latinos (Principal Investigator), $558,575.

This project examines bias victimization among Latino adults by recruiting a sample 900 participants across three sites in the U.S. (Boston, Houston/Galveston, and San Diego). The focus will be on bias victimization as well as other forms of interpersonal victimization, disclosing and reporting of bias victimization, as well as culturally salient factors that may play a role in victimization risk.

2017 – 2019 National Institute of Justice (2016-IJ-CX-0006): Development of a New Measure of Adolescent Dating Aggression: National Norms with a Focus on Marginalized Youth (Co-Investigator), $499,988.

This project is to develop and pilot an instrument to measure teen dating violence. The instrument will be created using ethnically diverse youth (ages 11 - 21) and then piloted with a national sample of 1,400 youth. The result will be an instrument with administration procedures, scoring options, interpretation guidelines, and a screener version to be used in non-research settings. Psychometric properties will be evaluated.

2017 – 2018 Northeastern University Tier 1 Seed Grant: Pathways to Healing: A Mixed Methods Investigation of the Role of Justice in Dealing with Mental, Physical, and Social Wounds of Sexual Assault Survivors (Co-Investigator), $50,000.

This project aims to collect pilot data to establish feasibility and acceptability of a longitudinal cohort study among sexual violence survivors in Massachusetts, including recruitment from multiple agencies, development of assessment tools, and retaining of study participants in the cohort.

2016 – 2017 National Institute of Justice (2015-R2-CX-K127): The Youth Bias Victimization Questionnaire (Y-BVQ): Instrument Development and Outcomes from At-Risk Youth in Three U.S. Communities (Co-Investigator), $624,638.

This project is to develop and pilot an instrument to measure youth bias victimization. The instrument will be piloted by recruiting ethnically diverse youth (ages 10 - 21) from three targeted communities. The result will be an instrument with administration procedures, scoring options, and interpretation guidelines. Psychometric properties will be evaluated.

2012 – 2014 National Institute of Justice (2011-WG-BX-0021): Dating Violence Among Latino Adolescents - II (DAVILA - II) Study (Principal Investigator), $556,536.

National survey to obtain longitudinal data on the original sample of Latino adolescents (DAVILA Study) to examine dating violence, comorbid victimization, psycho-social outcomes, help-seeking behaviors, and influencing cultural factors among Latino youth.

2010 – 2012 National Institute of Justice (2009-W9-BX-0001): Dating Violence Among Latino Adolescents (DAVILA) Study (Co-Principal Investigator), $678,942.

National survey of Latino adolescents examining dating violence, comorbid victimization, psycho-social outcomes, help-seeking behaviors, and influencing cultural factors.

2007 – 2010 National Institute of Justice (2007-WG-BX-0051): Sexual Assault Among Latinas (SALAS) Study (Principal Investigator), $450,585.

National survey of Latino women examining sexual victimization, comorbid victimization, psychological outcomes, help-seeking behaviors, and influencing cultural factors.
